

Improving EHS team efficiency

ehs intelligence

Solving the challenges of EHS team inefficiencies

Searching for and managing compliance data can be massively time-consuming — time that would otherwise be spent addressing non-compliances. These inefficiencies include time spent in internal reporting, in resolving different taxonomies across EHS teams at both corporate and site-levels, and in harmonizing the ways teams measure and benchmark site-level performance across the company.

When citing the largest sources for EHS team inefficiency that Enhesa helped them to overcome, customers listed efficiency challenges before Enhesa as:

Inefficiency

Finding data

Manual tracking
via spreadsheets

Lack of visibility to regulations

Time spent on reporting KPIs

Our 2025 ROI client survey found that participants consistently reported a 15-20% increase in efficiency since using Enhesa's EHS Intelligence solution.

- ✓ Reduced time spent on manual data-gathering
- ✓ More focus on high-value implementation
- ✓ Saved 1-5 days per month per team member
- ✓ A clear, centralized view of compliance status

How Enhesa can help

Enhesa enables remote data access across all sites, allowing me to find crucial data in five minutes, improving stakeholder and crisis management. Before, I couldn't gather the data at all.

Director SSHE Europe, multinational FMCG company

Enhesa provides a service with the relevant legislation, rather than manual tracking via spreadsheets. It's saved us valuable time that's now spent actively managing plants.

Director, Health and Safety, industrial and consumer goods company

Efficiency gains according to our customers

Shift time to high-value tasks

At smaller sites, people didn't have time to do compliance scans well. Enhesa has helped them feel comfortable shifting focus to operational tasks.

H&S Manager EMEA, multinational industrial and consumer goods company

Reduce time spent building reports

A centralized compliance approach has reduced time spent by senior management on reporting. They can now focus on execution and strategy instead of chasing different KPIs.

Global Food Safety Standards & Emerging Risks, multinational consumer goods company

Save a "week every month" on regulatory management

Time saved was insurmountable. Once set up, regulatory adherence and management was just a number-crunching exercise, saving a good week every month.

UK HSES&S Manager, multinational industrial and consumer goods company

Visibility of all regulations for global teams

Before Enhesa, the global management team did not have much visibility of all the regulations before, but now we have the full picture everywhere.
