

Manage and mitigate non-compliance risk with a view into the future of EHS requirements

ehs intelligence

Regulatory Forecaster gives you advance notice of pending and proposed changes to EHS regulations across more than 400 jurisdictions – months ahead of implementation. Clear, concise summaries of requirements and their business impacts, authored by more than 160 regulatory experts, help EHS teams get ahead of changes to EHS regulations worldwide.

Requirements have grown by 42% since 2020.

203,317
in 2020

231,719
in 2021

253,594
in 2022

272,242
in 2023

289,553
in 2024

Here's how leading businesses across the world use Regulatory Forecaster to stay ahead of regulatory change:

Centralized regulatory data

– Create a single source for upcoming requirements

Reliable digital insights – Get your employees on the same page and reduce error

Grows as you do – Learn about new and strategic jurisdictions and topics to support your growth initiatives.

What other risks will your EHS teams be better-equipped to face with Regulatory Forecaster?

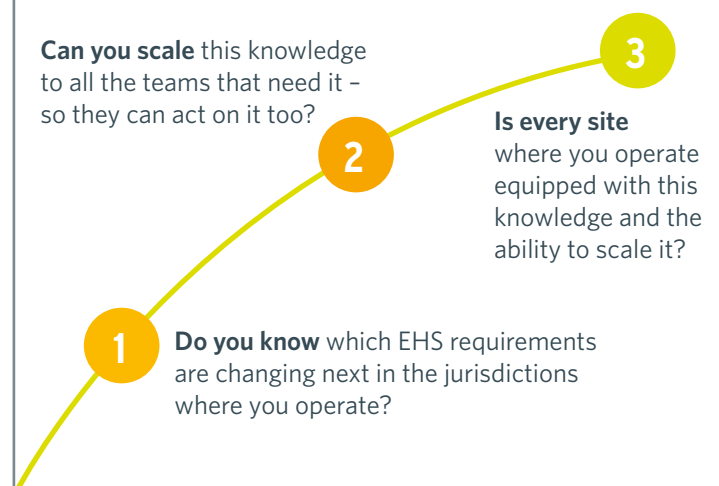

Avoid non-compliance with new EHS requirements: Stay ahead of changes, tracking them from the proposal stage to implementation.

Anticipate emerging sustainability directives: Get a view of emerging trends to inform your big-picture EHS strategy.

Manage various reporting requirements: Leadership, investors, and regulators alike all require clear, verifiable data to demonstrate your teams know about and address EHS compliance requirements everywhere you operate.

Self-evaluation

Where do you fall on the maturity curve toward future-proofing your EHS compliance program?

See how Regulatory Forecaster by Enhesa EHS Intelligence powers better risk mitigation – now and into the future.

enhesa.com